The sixth edition of our X-omics festival “the future of multi-omics research is now!” will take place on Monday April 15th, 2024. This edition will be organized as an in-person event.

The program of this edition will contain different types of multi-omics sessions with a keynote, presentations, poster pitches/sessions and opportunities to network with the X-omics community and other (multi-)omics researchers. Technology pitches of users of new omics techniques will also be included in the program.

Location

Venue: Concertgebouw de Vereeniging, Nijmegen, The Netherlands.

Date

Monday, April 15th, 2024.

Meet the participants!

Audience

The X-omics festival is focused on bringing together the different scientific communities involved in the multi-omics area (people from genomics, proteomics, metabolomics and data analysis, integration & stewardship communities). The communities will be able to meet and discuss the required next steps for multi-omics approaches.

The attendees of the X-omics festival will be mostly researchers, postdocs and PhD students from all the research areas involved with a specific interest in multi-omics approaches, new “omics” technologies and multi-omics data integration. X-omics partners and consortium members will also be present.

In person we expect 200 participants (mainly Dutch).

Networking opportunities

The exhibition for sponsors will be situated in the hall where coffee breaks and a lunch break will take place. Additional networking with participants can take place during drinks after the talks.
